

Creating Effective Presentations

Program Duration: 1 day

To give a presentation that yields results for your team and organization, you'll need more than a few fancy fonts and pie charts.

Exceptional presentation skills are essential to your success. In order to move forward with your career, you'll need to be an extraordinary communicator.

In this dynamic and interactive program, you will learn the required personal and technical skills, including but not limited to: body language, storytelling, and how to convert performance anxiety into personal power. In a constructive and collaborative environment, you will work on your own presentation projects and get feedback from both audience members (participants) and experts in the fields of influence and persuasion.

Participants come prepared with a two-minute presentation that they will be coached on throughout the program. All presentations are video recorded for private playback with commentary from the trainers. By the end of the program, participants will have a more polished presentation as well as several other skills they can use throughout your professional career.

Participants will walk away with these skills:

- Demonstrating the tools required to keep your presentations engaging and productive
- Translating data into a story that is both compelling and useful to an audience
- Demonstrating how to persuade and influence others both audibly and visually
- Creating a lasting impact that resonates with audiences
- Conveying the worth of your message and communicating that truth effectively

Audience

Professionals of all levels who need to effectively engage and influence others through presentations in order to achieve personal, team, or organizational goals.

Cost

$650.00 General Registration

$585.00 Xavier Alumni, Military/Govt./Non-profit

0.6 CEUs will be issued for this program